

Translations: Béliier hydraulique/82/en

---

The driving line length and the fall height are directly related to the river or lake slope. In this case as well, it would be interesting to establish an asymmetric profile in order to take distances and elevation gradients into account.