

Translations:Biodigesteur domestique/47/en

This kind of biodigestor is mesophile, which means that bacterias develop between 25°C ans 45°C, ideally at 38°C. Unlike compost, biodigestion create only few heat. To reach these temperatures, heat will have to be provided to the system. It is possible to heat by different means :

- compost around the digestor,