

Translations:Chauffage solaire version ardoise/104/en

---

This other website makes it possible to calculate these values almost everywhere on earth by taking into account the horizon line, the orientation of the panels and other parameters. The values displayed by default correspond to the photovoltaic energy generated, but it is possible to display the radiation in  $\text{kwh/m}^2$ .