

Translations:Filtre à eau céramique/37/en

Using a hydraulic press significantly reduces the labour requirements of the process and greatly increases the efficacy and consistency of the product. The filters are squeezed between a male mould and a female mould which are covered with plastic bags to prevent sticking. The hydraulic press includes a fixed plate in the lower mould that pushes the pressed mould outward when the mould opens.