

Translations:Fonctionnement, entretien et régénération de batteries au plomb/37/en

These batteries are intended for use in photovoltaic solar installations. They are designed to withstand a high number of cycles (since they will be discharged every night and recharged every morning), and their depth of discharge is generally good but can vary greatly from one model to another. Service batteries have almost the same characteristics as solar batteries.

View the inside a slow cycle/solar battery