

Translations:L'éolienne/121/en-gb

---

The energy supplied by the wind turbine is not constant because the wind speed is constantly changing. The overload must therefore be temporarily stored in order to be able to redistribute it consistently. A capacitor is used for this purpose.