

Translations:Le biofiltre/32/en

It is a system in which decomposers microorganisms are going to finish the stage of "digestion" of chemicals compounds in order for them to be directly and easily available for plants. In a healthy soil, this method is happening continuously.