Made from life jackets' foam which can be easily found here, these mattresses permit to diminish the material pollution on the island. The survival blankets and plastic tarpaulin wrapping the mattress, even if not coming from salvage, enable to improve the insulate and waterproof aspects of the mattress against humidity. Facing the emergency of the situation and the time imperative, we could not sew an insulating tarpaulin, which for example could have been made with the inflatable dinghy's fabric stored on the island .
