

Translations: Torréfacteur solaire de café/28/en

You will see different step occurring during the roasting process:

The fermented coffee grains would first dehydrate. Then they will turn into light brown and will finally make some noise (crack).

A cooling step is then required before grinding the grain